Note: The Sports Page Team Challenge was a precursor of the Upstate NY XC Series. The late Pete Glavin organized this series with sponsorship from a Rochester, Monroe Avenue, sports bar. Team scoring was based on the total time of the team's runners, with 3 runners scoring in each division. Race winner, Tom Touri, was an alumnus of the University of Rochester where he was the 1987 NCAA Division III National Champion in the 1500m at 3:46.08.

Note: Once again the McQuaid Invitational Open Race was part of the Sports Page Team Challenge. Team scoring was kept but is not available. As you can see from some of the team names, most teams were not official USATF club teams. Both the Men's winner, Scott Jones and the Women's champion Tamara Sayre competed for the High Noon A.C. out of Ithaca, NY. The club is so-named because daily workouts are held at 12 noon from Barton Hall Field House at Cornell University in Ithaca, NY.

Note: This was the inaugural season of the Upstate NY Cross Country Series and the McQuaid Invitational Open race was the third race in the series. The great Jerry Lawson of the Syracuse Track Club ran a spectacular 14:10 solo effort for the all-time best time at Genesee Valley Park. Little is known of the Women's champion, Tammy Wilcox, of London, Ontario, who won by over 30 seconds in a very respectable 18:36.3.

All of the times on the original race result's sheet are listed to the nearest 1/10th of a second. I have rounded them to the slower second for reporting purposes here.

I must comment on the team names in the Upstate Series. I understand "Team Spit" made up of a family of Dentists but could anyone explain the "Screamin' Gibbons" and "Team Wanker #4" for me???? Then again maybe we're better off not knowing.

Note: Once again, the McQuaid Invitational Open Race was part of the Upstate NY Cross Country Series. I recall that the race winner, Christian Reed, was a student at the University of Rochester. The highlight of the race was the very fast 17:18.1 (17:19) posted by Rochester's Beth DeCiantis. This remains as the fastest women's time for the McQuaid Invitational Open race.

Genesee Valley Park

3-mile course

Saturday, September 28, 1996

Note: The 1996 race was part of the Upstate NY Cross Country Series. Some of the clubs listed are USATF member clubs, others are clubs put together for the Upstate XC Series.

Note: Torrential rains inundated the course. After 26 High School races, the course was a mud bath. There were several large foot deep "puddles" to traverse. The first uphill was so slick that several runners were seen grabbing tree branches to pull themselves forward. Quite a few shoes were sucked off in the mud.

1996 USA Olympian at 10,000m, Kate Fonshell, came to town to give a clinic the night before the race. She stayed around to race through the mud for the victory.

Upstate NY Series' Director Pete Glavin typed the results using capital letters and I did not want to re-type the entire result page, so I only re-did the top 20.

Note: The 1997 version of the McQuaid Invitational 3-mile Open Race was part of a 5 race series of "off-week" local races held in conjunction with the Upstate NY XC Series. The race and series were sponsored by local restaurant, "Hogan's Hideaway". The small field might be attributed to either memories of the previous year's mudbath or to a racing conflict with the USASTF Niagara Association's XC Championship race held the same day in Cortland, NY. Talented University of Rochester grad, Jason Quagliatta won the race. Jason would later turn to kayak racing where he would become one of the top paddlers in the U.S.

Note: Once again the McQuaid Invitational 3-mile Open Race was part of a 4 race series of “off-week” local races held in conjunction with the Upstate NY XC Series. The race and series continued to enjoy the sponsorship of local restaurant, “Hogan’s Hideaway”. The men’s champion was Derek White of Williamsville, NY, who ran a fine 15:06 on a beautiful day for racing. Women’s champion was Erin Tyler, a student at Rochester Institute of Technology (RIT). Former Section V XC standout Kari Horowitz (48th place) was in the process of revitalizing the RIT women’s XC program and the young women from RIT ran as a club team. They would be recognized as a varsity program in 2001.

Note: The 25th Anniversary of the McQuaid Invitational 3-mile Open race featured a surprise victory by local Master runner, Carolyn Smith-Hanna. She would go on to claim several national championships and be named the USATF Master Cross Country "Runner-of-the-Year". Once again the race was part of a small 2 race series of "off-week" local races held in conjunction with the Upstate NY XC Series. The race and series picked up a new sponsor in Innovative Edge Sportswear, operated by GVH Coach Mike Reif. Little is known of men's champion, Jason Soja from Lakewood, Ohio. He came to town with one of the many High School teams from Ohio competing in the High School Invitational which was celebrating its 35th running.

The 2000 McQuaid Open Race saw victories from 2 college runners. University of Buffalo's Jerimie Slick (15:05) and RIT's Heidi Spalholz (19:20) both claimed the wins on another gorgeous Fall day for running. Current McQuaid Invitational Meet Director, Pete Glavin, finished a respectable third overall in 16:01.
